Peer Ministers develop communication skills that allow them to reach out beyond themselves to effectively help those around them. Skills include listening, questioning, non-verbal communication, how to welcome a stranger, and values and decision-making.

Based in the beautiful Black Hills the week includes small group instruction and discussion with professional leaders, housing in cabins and excellent meals!

You aren't doing youth ministry until youth are doing ministry

Peer Ministry is an intentional way of training youth who want to know what to do when their friends are struggling. No lectures, no power points, no white boards. This is a face-to-face, learn-by-doing, skill-by-skill experience. You learn Peer Ministry Leadership skills by entering into life and faith experiences with everyone in the room. A circle of chairs, engaging exercises, working in pairs, as you use the skills you are learning, deepening faith and yes...always fun.
